Season's Greetings and Best Wishes For the New Year

VOL. XXVII, NO. 43 THURSDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1972 10c At All Newsstands

Problems, from Within and Without, Dominated 1972 Scene Here

In 1972, the big news stories in Princeton reflected events in the nation and world outside Princeton's boundaries. Even 1972's chief villains—the gypsy moth and the rain—came from beyond the community's borders.

In May, the town saw four agonizing days of demonstrations against the embattled Institute for Defense Analyses — 214 people were arrested, including seven members of the Princeton University faculty.

In the high temper and emotionalism of the four-day period, Borough police were accused of deliberately jamming a nightstick into a student's mouth (the Borough's Police Commissioner later absolved the police of deliberately injuring the student), and in a heated public meeting, students themselves shouted "You lie!" at police. Student vandals in Borough Hall made off with an American flag, two eagles and some ash trays.

It was a time of trial and anger, but in comparison to other communities, Princeton's experience was mild.

"Kids don't want any more to get into affairs that have violence in them" said one Princeton High School youth. "The IDA demonstrations really turned us off."

So the high school students held their own demonstration, a candlelight march for peace, silent in the soft rain of a May evening. They marched, with many adults as companions, down Nassau Street to "Morven," the governor's mansion.

Protest against the continuing war in Vietnam touched the municipal level in Princeton and almost 2,000 residents of both Borough and Township signed petitions against the war. Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley took the petitions himself to the Washington office of Princeton's new Congressman, Peter H. B. Frelinghuysen.

Princeton got a different Congressman in 1972 because redistricting placed the two Princetons in a newly-drawn Fifth Congressional District. So it was "good-bye"

COMMUTERS NOT RESPONSIBLE: When the dinky was derailed last March, nobody blamed Penn Central commuters. But the commuting group known as the Intervenors did continue their battle in 1972 with Penn Central over rate increases and curtailed service on the dinky.

to Democratic Congressman Frank Thompson, "Hello" to Republican Frelinghuysen.)

IDA remains in the news as a new year comes. The Institute would like to move away from proximity to the University campus and into Princeton Township's research zone, just off Terhune.

But a group of citizens is trying, as the year ends, to keep IDA out.

Helping Heart. Another kind of happening outside Princeton's borders drew the thoughts and hearts of Princeton residents in 1972. After the disastrous June floods in Wilkes-Barre, the town of Princeton dug into its closets and its food cupboards and sent truckloads of vital supplies to Pennsylvania's homeless.

Later, through Princeton churches, people themselves went to Wilkes-Barre to let its stricken families know they were not forgotten.

Me, Too! In Princeton, as in the countryside at large, "minorities" used to mean blacks or Indians or Puerto Ricans or Jews. This year, a newer group, a "minority" by sociological, if not statistical definition, made its treble voice heard.

It is, of course, the woman. In Princeton, "The Woman's Place" opened in March at 14½ Witherspoon Street, under the auspices of the National Organization of Women.

Complaints were filed formally with the state's Civil Rights Commission on equal pay, job discrimination, employment opportunities. "Dick and Jane as Victims" revealed in detail the sexism of school books that show girls as passive and fearful and boys as aggressive and brave.

A complaint went to the Federal department of Health, Education and Welfare on the status of women at Princeton University. In February, HEW told the University to work out a plan for ending discrimination in hiring women, or risk losing $20 million in Federal money. A two-year plan was announced in March by University officials.

Women appeared in municipal government in Princeton. Barbara Smoyer, last New Year's Day became the Township's first woman member of Committee. The Borough welcomed a woman to Council on the New Year's Day before, when Barbara Sigmund.

Care for the Aged. Princeton's older citizens, representing a minority group constantly growing in size throughout the country, received formal notice a meal for the first time. A joint Commission on Aging, between Borough and Township, and a Meals on Wheels program to provide nourishment for shut-ins, testified to growing interest in this part of the population.

Stronger and more active than a decade ago, Princeton's black residents spoke clearly in 1972, starting New Year's Day with the statement of black Borough Councilman Joseph P. Moore, "I have not been able to attain full power because of my color."

Mr. Moore, denied the job of Police Commissioner, declared he would not serve on any Council committee. Later, however, he did accept appointment as Council's representative on the Intergovernmental Drug Committee.

In February and March, Mr. Moore and young Richard Silvis Jr., made news when Mr. Silvis protested his mistaken arrest on a numbers charge. Mr. Moore, defending Mr. Silvis, charged police with a double standard of arrests for blacks and whites. The Civil Rights Commission declared that black Princetonians regard the police as the "enemy" and Mayor Cawley nodded agreement with that judgment.

An expanded Police Committee was proposed, to include three voting civilian members, two of whom would be black. The ensuing uproar occupied officials, police and townspeople throughout the spring. Police, through their union, protested the measure as was "unfair and discriminatory." When the union's lawyer charged that the whole Police Committee concept was illegal and threatened suit, the matter died down. Summer came, and in September a compromise was reached: three advisory, non-voting citizens would be named.

So Long. By this time the Borough had a new police chief, Peter J. McCrohan, chief since 1961, on the force 37 years, retired and Lt. Michael Carnevale became chief.

Chief McCrohan was one of many well-known Princetonians who retired during 1972. On December 31, R. Kenneth Fairman will leave the office of Director of Athletics for the University after 35 years.

John Dilworth retired as Princeton's postmaster. June 30, having been at that desk since 1961 and in uniform since 1943. Rep. Frederick Rodino succeeded him. And when Western Union closed its doors, Princeton lost Martin Liples, [illegible] communication expert.

Glenda Richards, at Princeton High for 29 years, closed the Latin books and retired at the end of the school year. Dorothea Lummis, with 22 years as teacher, principal and curriculum expert in the Princeton's schools retired at the same time.

On the business scene, John Archer, who sold his University Cleaners, retired, as did Louise Maas, who turned over her Palmer Square candy shop to a new owner, and then died just as the year was ending.

Living, '72. In the daily round of life, Princeton spent 1972 looking for a place to park. One TOWN TOPICS headline, "34,999 Reasons for a Parking Garage" referred to the number of parking tickets handed around in 1971.

The taxpayer, making his own grumpy rounds, learned with a wan smile that the Borough hopes to get more money from tax exempt institutions in the community: Princeton University, the Seminary and the Choir College.

Governor Cahill's tax reform package was enthusiastically endorsed here in Princeton but not in the halls of the legislature, where it was defeated.

There were accidents: two young men, Jean Cassidesus and George Kelleher, lost their lives in auto accidents. An empty dinky train was mysteriously derailed, making "an unscheduled run and stop."

A tragic fire in June took the life of a young mother, Mrs. India Grover. At year-end, fire destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Diefenbach. At the year's beginning, fire destroyed the Witherspoon Street shop known as Lolin's. But the great big fire was the February blaze that destroyed 40,50,000 books collected for resale by the Brown Mayor Club. It was scholarship money gone up in smoke. The town came to Brown Mayor's aid with even more books to replace the burned ones, and the subsequent spring sale risen, like Phoenix from its ashes, was a financial success.

The crime of 1972 was the same as the crime of 1971: the murder of Laura Carpi, who disappeared in February 1971. The indictment of Colin C. Carpi, Mrs. Carpi's husband, was quashed late in 1971, but reinstated during 1972 and the court has granted [illegible] and speedy trial.

Death in less violent forms took several names from Princeton. Perhaps the best known of all was "Santa Claus," Henry Schultz, who died July 1 after many happy seasons as THE Santa Claus in Princeton [illegible].

Edward C. Kendall, Nobel prize winner in medicine for work resulting in the eventual synthesis of cortisone, died in

A Look Back at 1972

May. Bertrand L. Gulick, Jr., onetime mayor of Princeton Township and a businessman in Princeton for half a century, died early this December. Dean Mathey, a trustee emeritus of Princeton University, was another 1972 loss.

A Quick One. What will you remember about 1972? Bars in the Borough can be open now until 2 a.m. (But the Township still calls "time" at midnight.)

"Bang" was a bad word, the anti-noise ordinance was passed in the Borough, the anti-firearm ordinance in the Township.

The year began with a series of "Town Meetings," where fellow townspeople sat in congenial—and sometimes argumentative—groups, talking about the way Princeton ought to be. Months later, as the year drew to a close, a grandiose plan for the town's Central Business District was unveiled.

Sidewalk cafes, pedestrian walkways instead of trucks, splashing fountains, lots of green and lots of parking space, too—that's what people talked about in the Town Meetings, that's what the new CBD proposal puts on the drawing boards. But don't order your espresso just yet...

AFTER 34 YEARS of service to Princeton, Borough Police Chief Peter J. McCrohon retired on August 1, 1972.

Nassau Street was paved this summer for the first time in 28 years and the University orbited a telescope so accurate and powerful, it could "follow a basketball from 400 miles away."

On campus, that green space across Nassau, the University installed William Bowen as its new President, succeeding Robert F. Goheen. And ROTC went back on campus, having been shut down since the student disturbances of 1970.

Your Business... Academic the town may be, but the world of commerce is here, too. The "New Jersey National Bank of Princeton"—first new bank in town for about 60 years—will open soon in the space where Nevius-Voorhees used to be.

Saks Fifth Avenue moved out, and a new Clayton's branch moved in. Grover Lumber celebrated 50 years as a Princeton Business.

Executive unemployment remained a sticky problem. The First Presbyterian Church gathered a group of $30,000-plus executives in the spring to help them find jobs.

A $4 million condominium at Hamilton and North Harrison took shape during the year, and a big cluster development was proposed for the northwest Township.

Living Room. Housing is the continuing Princeton story. On paralleled tracks during late summer and fall, the Township's public housing project and Edward Kopp's private apartment proposal faced municipal bodies. Both are scheduled for Township Committee consideration early in '73.

Meanwhile, it looks as though Princeton Community Housing may at last get a start on its 240 middle-income units.

Guernsey Hall, remodeled into luxury apartments, promises lavish, 19th-century elegance for a few lucky householders. The stately mansion is being lovingly partitioned into apartments that will retain the spirit an darchitectural integrity of another age.

Improvement. Are problems ever solved? Princeton could rightly feel, as 1972 ended, that maybe and hopefully, the drug problem in this community was at least coming under control.

Bill Kight, indefatigable street-worker, did report 125 teens on heroin, back in March. But quietly, this fall, "Corner House" opened, with the goal of evaluating everyone who came with a drug problem: emergency care?, individual therapy? detoxification? Corner House is the clearing house.

The Institute for Applied Psychotherapy obtained renewal of its state grant and its Borough-Township contributions, allowing it to continue to seek out younger, potentially troubled youngsters who might turn to hard drugs.

The Intergovernmental Committee on Drug Abuse was named as the year began. It consists of one representative each from Borough Council, Township Committee, the school board and the two boards of health, plus a trio of citizen representatives. It guides the work of Corner House.

School Bells. And those school problems? If Superintendent Philip E. McPherson continued to find himself under attack (at least, the new board back in February, finally gave him his raise), the Board of Education itself seemed to work more in harmony in 1972.

The money crunch and continuing race problems highlighted the curriculum for '72. Nobody knows yet the results of a court decision that it's unconstitutional to finance schools solely through property taxes. The coming year should see the solution to that one.

Loss of half-a-million in tuition when West Windsor opens the doors of its new high school will mean belt-tightening in Princeton.

Racial fighting flared early this October at the high school, caused by...nobody knows. Two high school students were arrested, 35 suspended. Black and white parents, around 200 of them, began to meet together in November, hoping to talk their way through to a solution of the problem.

Team Play. As the school year ended in June, coaches were so deeply disturbed about discipline that it seemed for a time as though football would be sacrificed. Sports guidelines, which Coach Richard Wood said he "could live with" smoothed over the concerns, and as school opened, Assistant Principal Florence Burke of the high school, said, "We're on: it's business-as-usual in football."

For the first time in New Jersey, school kids had a statewide test. It was administered in November, to every fourth-grader and every 12th-grader in the state (except a few PHS seniors who copped out—tired of tests.)

This time next year, Princeton will know about its high school. Remodel the present Gothic ruin or build anew?

Zoning Board Has New Year Housing Deadline

The Township Zoning Board will ring out the old this Friday evening (or so it hopes), with an eleventh-hour effort to settle the public housing variance questions before the old year ends.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in Township Hall. If the Zoning Board can't come to an agreement before midnight, December 31, on granting bulk variances for public housing, then the Authority will have to start all over again January 1, when a newly-constituted Zoning Board takes office.

The board made a start on these hearings last Thursday. It was legally enabled to hear the case when Judge Samuel D. Lenox Jr. of Superior Court, lifted a temporary restraining order filed by three neighbors of the housing project who oppose it.

TOPICS Of The Town

At Thursday's hearing, the board listened to Benedict Yedlin, builder-developer for the Housing Authority, and Thomas C. Janieson Jr., the Authority's lawyer, make their case for granting variances related to room size, parking, and the like.

Variances Needed? The Zoning Board has already granted the use variance necessary for apartment construction in a residential zone. It is Mr. Jamieson's contention that since the Township's new zoning ordinance doesn't have any provisions at all for multi-family housing, it's illogical for the Authority to be required to apply for these variances.

He points out that room sizes stipulated in the zoning ordinance are minimums for single-family homes, or conversions within homes. They have not been calculated, he states, with apartment - buildings in mind.

However, the zoners' attorney, Ivan Bash, says the Authority must get those variances.

Can't Be Specific. Only a few minutes into the hearing, a major problem developed: Mr. Jamieson told the board he can't produce exact measurements and ask for variances based on them, because Federal Housing and Urban Development officials will themselves decide what these measurements should be.

"You mean," asked board member Alan Jeydel incredulously, "that you're asking us for a blanket variance to build whatever HUD says?"

"Where room sizes are concerned, yes," Mr. Jamieson replied. "For other bulk variances (parking and so on,), no."

Mr Bash warned Mr. Jamieson that the Authority would have to come back for new variances if HUD changes what the zoning board grants.

Mr. Jamieson explained that HUD used to have minimum room sizes. The agency now speaks of "furnishability," he said, with a prototype unit cost beyond which it will not grant money.

Costs High Here. Wouldn't Princeton apartments end up with smaller rooms, asked board chairman Everett Garretson, because Princeton's labor costs are high? Mr. Yedlin admitted this might be the case.

Mr Garretson commented that the Township's footage requirements for rooms were intended to provide a "reasonable envelope to put human beings in. Room sizes must be in the best interests of the people who are going to live in the rooms," he said.

Because board members repeatedly said they didn't see how they could consider variances from the Township's required room sizes when they didn't know exactly what room sizes the Authority wanted, Mr. Yedlin and Mr. Jamieson, taking a long intermission, drew up a table comparing the Township's room-size requirements with a HUD manual which has only recently been superceded.

As an example of the differences — the Township ordinance requires 900 square feet for a two-bedroom family unit, and HUD stipulated, in its old manual, 720 square feet.

"It's ridiculous to grant a use variance and then impose restrictions that make it financially impossible to construct the project," Mr. Jamieson said bitterly.

Where parking is concerned, the Authority is asking a variance that will include the number of parking spaces that will be determined by the Planning Board. Here again, the Authority hopes for flexible specifications that can be adjusted to HUD's requirements.

MORE CANDIDATES

For School Board. With the filing deadline this Thursday at 4 p.m., there are now three candidates for the Township's single seat on the Princeton Regional School Board and only one for the Borough's two seats.

Robert Bierman, board president who is a Township member, said again this week that, although he has taken out a petition, he will probably "go right down to the line" before actually deciding whether to run for a second three-year term.

Dietrich Meyerhofer, 797 Stuart Road, is the latest Township candidate. He is a physicist at RCA.

Another Township candidate is Gail Pietrinferno, 233 Mt. Lucas Road. The third announced Township candidate is Fred J. Bauer.

The Borough candidate is Judith M. Getis, 92 Moore

We Re-organize

Traditional, and indeed legally required, re-organization meetings will be held New Year's Day in both Borough and Township Halls.

In some years, the ceremonies are held simultaneously. But this year, they will be held at different times so that, in a spirit of — consolidation? — both Princetons can attend each other's festivities.

The Township will lead off at 11 a.m. in Township Hall. After new Committee members Abbot Low Moffat and William Sutphin are sworn in, it is expected that Committee will elect Jay Bleiman mayor.

Then at noon, in Borough Hall, two new Council members will take the oath. They are Robert Powell and Barbara Sigmund.

After the Borough's ceremonies, the traditional community open house for Borough and Township, Republican and Democrat, will be held in the firehouse on North Harrison Street.

A Look Back at 1972

Extensive engineering and curriculum studies are under way right now, gathering data for the answer.

Join the Party. This time last year municipal governing bodies were getting ready to welcome Republican victors to Council and Committee. The elections of 1971 had swept in a Republican mayor of the Borough, two Republican Councilmen and a Republican Committeewoman in the Township.

Today, the year-old Republican sweep is a Democratic sweep. In a complete about face, Princeton's voters (including a significant number of University students) brought the Democrats back into power and this coming New Year's Day will see four Democrats sworn in at the two municipal halls.

Republican Mayor John D. Wallace will bow out, after six years on Township Committee and three years as mayor. Committee also lost, during 1972, James A. Floyd who moved out of town.

Consolidate! "Two municipal halls?" Yes, it's still "two Princetons," and the word "they" is still used, in both Borough and Township meeting rooms, to talk about "them," on the other side of that municipal line.

This fall, a fiscal study showed that between 1975 and 1978, the tax difference between B and T will only be 4 cents. Said Mayor Wallace: "The Township wants the Borough to give solid suport to a full-scale consolidation study." Said Mayor Cawley: "I hope Council members will have open minds, and allow such a study to be made."

Serve! What was it, on the light side in 1972? Paddle tennis became the "in" sport, and so many people began to play that new courts had to be constructed. Bocce, handball and a new basketball court reached blueprint stage.

Councilman Martin P. Lombardo asked a question no body had ever asked before: "What do kids themselves think of the playgrounds?" "More basketball courts!" "More girls' activities!" "Cleaner sandboxes!" (a mother chimed in with that one.)

Everybody had ideas about what to do with the big old gym behind Borough Hall: "Play ball!" said the Recreation Commission; "Set up the bingo tables," said the Commission on Aging. "Keep it dark and quiet," said the neighbors.

In 1973, everybody will have ideas about what to do with Valley Road School. The preteens in the Middle School will troop over to John Witherspoon School in 1973, John Witherspoon's pre-pre-teens will be re-districted, and Valley Road will be up for grabs.

"Street Theatre" performances brought a quiet young pleasure to the evening summer scene in Princeton. X-rated dirty movies lured Princeton viewers (voyeurs?) after dark, coat-collar turned up, to the sin-spots of surrounding municipalities.

Here at home, theatre-goers found McCarter repertory back in action, after a year's intermission. The opener, "Agamemnon" may not have had them cheering in the aisles, but Princeton welcomed live, professional theatre back to town.

The Year in Sports. Princeton University teams won Eastern intercollegiate titles in tennis and swimming and tied for the Ivy League championship in wrestling. En route to their first place finish, the swimmers defeated Yale for the first time in 34 years.

The basketball team was the Ivy runner-up but became the first member of the Ancient Eight to play in the National Invitation Tournament. The bad news came in football, the Tigers winning only three of their nine games and falling as far down as sixth in the final Ivy standings — Princeton's poorest finish since the league became formal in 1956.

At Princeton High School, the outstanding achievements were credited to the tennis and soccer teams. The former, undefeated during its regular season, won the Central Jersey Group 3 title. The soccer team climaxed a fine season by earning its first invitation to the state tournament, scoring two upsets before being eliminated.

There was major progress in football, the Little Tigers rebounding from a winless season in 1971 to a 5-4 mark this year. In winter sports, Mary Trotman replaced Larry Ivan as basketball coach, but hockey fell by the wayside as small squads and lack of a regular coach proved insurmountable obstacles to the sport's future.

Hun School's success was primarily in baseball, the Red and Black retaining the Penn Jersey title en route to a 13-3 record. Football at Hun made news when it struck a depressed 1-7 record, in contrast to the four year, 33 game winning streak it owned two years ago.

Re-cycled Lately? In 1972, Princeton residents found themselves tossing around the word "ecology," which most of them had never even heard of ten years ago.

In April, the Borough began Wednesday re-cycling. ("Is it green glass Wednesday or metals Wednesday?" became as standard a Borough question as "Where can I park?")

The next month, the Township followed along. In the Township, everything is collected on alternate Wednesdays, so the Township question is "What week is it?" instead of "What color is the glass?" A man from Mars might justifiably be confused.

Chugging quietly along, with the current of the year, has been the 100 foot steel dredging barge, scooping up the goak from the bottom of Lake Carnegie. Almost at the end of the lake now, as 1972 draws to a close. A symbol, perhaps? A cleansing and a renewal for the year to come.

Street. Former Borough school board member Kathleen Edwards, persistently rumored as a candidate, said this week "They are trying to pressure me to run, but I am definitely not going to."

Biography. Mrs. Getis is on the boards of the League of Women Voters, the Princeton Study Center and the Princeton Recorder Society. She is also a member of the new Borough-Township Commission on Aging.

Mrs. Pietrinferno is a psychologist who will receive her doctorate next month from Princeton University. She is a 1967 graduate of Bucknell University, and the mother of one son in the John Witherspoon kindergarten and two younger children at home.

The wife of Arthur Getis, professor of geography at Rutgers, Mrs. Getis is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of Michigan, class of 1959. She has an M.A. in geography and as a graduate student, received a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship. The Getis family consists of two daughters in John Witherspoon School and one in nursery school.

Year-End Question

They say that
The daylight
Is longer each day.
But how can we tell,
With the sun
Gone away?

True enough, the days are a minute or so longer (at dusk) than they were a week ago, but when the skies are constantly cloudy, darkness seems to come earlier.

Clouds will remain part of the picture (we haven't had a full day of bright sunshine for over two weeks), and so will a chance of precipitation. The Man keeps muttering about snow, and one day soon he's bound to be right. December rainfall has been 50% above normal, and the trend is expected to continue into 1973.

In a statement, issued as she declared her candidacy, Mrs. Pietrinferno referred to "teachers voting no-confidence in the administration; parents . . . who are convinced Princeton schools aren't teaching basic skills or providing proper discipline."

She continued, "Does it make sense to let our good teachers go because we don't have enough funds, yet construct a new high school at the very time we have buildings standing idle because enrollments are decreasing? More than we need a new building, we need a sound curriculum and an environment where children can learn."

She added, "The time for fighting is past."

Mrs. Getis, the Borough candidate, said in a biographical statement that she has a secondary-school teaching certificate, and taught at Rutgers for two years.

She worked with her husband on a high-school curriculum project in geography, and has also worked in the Test Development division of ETS. She is co-editor of "Environments, People and Inequalities," a sociology text scheduled for January publication.

BAIL RAISED

For York Five. Three Princeton Theological Seminary students and two others were released Thursday on bail from the York, Pa., jail pending appearance before the April grand jury. The hearing was at 10 a.m. on Friday.

Charged with pouring cement on a switch for a York railroad siding in an anti-war protest, the five had been under arrest since Monday morning of last week.

Bail was set at $7,500 each and according to Mrs. Patricia Kirk, one of the group, the total $37,500 was raised by a York area family putting up their farm for the majority of the bail, with the balance of the funds raised by the Quakers.

Those involved are Rollin D. Kirk, 25, a Seminary senior and former head of the student body; Monica McKig, 25, a senior; Eugene D. Galvin Jr., 23, of Newark also a seminarian; Thomas E. Koramos, 21, of New Brunswick and Mrs Kirk, a member of the staff at Princeton Public Library.

According to Mrs. Kirk, the group has two attorneys to represent them: Louis Natali Jr. of Philadelphia and Charles Glackin of Harrisburg. On the advice of attorneys, Mrs. Kirk would not state Tuesday whether there had been a leak in the plans of the group to cement the Central Penn railroad switch leading to the American Machine Foundry (AMF) plant in York.

OK FOR PCH

Midsummer Ground-breaking. It was all a misunderstanding by state officials. The cliff-hanging summons of Princeton Community Housing, Inc. officials to Trenton by the New Jersey Housing Finance Agency turned out to be involved only with a misinterpretation of PCH figures.

So the $7.5 million mortgage loan is safe after all. By the end of March, architects are to complete their preliminary plans, and these plans will be checked by the state's architect as they progress, to save time.

By May 1, PCH hopes for firm cost estimates from the builder, and by mid-summer, groundbreaking. PCH will construct, with state aid, 240 units of middle-income and low-income housing on a tract north of Terhune Road.

STIFF JAIL SENTENCE

For Princeton Drug Pusher. Convicted drug pusher Kenneth R. McEwen, 47, of 184 Witherspoon Street, has been sentenced to 14 to 18 years in jail by Mercer County Judge Clifton C. Bennett.

In sentencing McEwen Friday, Judge Bennett said, "It is hoped that this jail term will put you out of business if it can be done." McEwen had been described by police as a major supplier of narcotics to Princeton area youths.

McEwen received a 10-to-12 year sentence for possession of heroin, a consecutive two-to-three year term for selling narcotics and a two-to-three year term for carrying a revolver without a permit.

OLD FRIEND: Marcel Marceau, the noted French mime, has been making regular visits to Princeton for so many years it's almost impossible to keep count. He will be back in McCarter for three performances Friday and Saturday, January 26 and 27.

News Of The THEATRES

"MARIGOLDS"

With Teresa Wright. Film credits ranging from an Academy Award performance in "Mrs Miniver" to "The Little Foxes" and "Pride of the Yankees," plus stage appearances as an understudy in the original "Our Town" and a Broadway debut in the original "Life With Father" have qualified Teresa Wright for almost any role a playwright has in mind.

She will play McCarter January 5 and 6 in three performances as "The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds," the Pulitzer winner of Paul Zindel.

Both evening performances are sold out, but tickets remain for the 2:30 p.m. matinee Saturday, January 6.

"WILD . . . FREE"

For Children, Adults. "Run Wild, Run Free" has been described (Time Magazine) as "not only an ideal children's film, but a mature piece of film-making in its own right."

As the next in line in McCarter's "Movies-for Kids" series, it will be shown this Saturday at 11 a.m. Tickets will be on sale at the box-office starting at 10 a.m.

The 1970 British release was filmed in color on the Devon moors in England. It stars John Mills and Mark Lester (he was the child star of "Oliver.")

Young Lester plays a small boy who lost his speech after a traumatic childhood experience. He is be friended by a retired colonel and a white colt. The colonel, played by Mills, discovers that the boy relates to animals more than he does to people.

Boy and colt become inseparable, wandering freely over the moorland. One day they become lost in a heavy fog and caught in a quagmire. The search party is able to save only the boy, but at the last moment, the boy breaks through his muteness and speaks the words that help to save his white colt.

COME TO THE GLOBE

For "As You Like It," Bearing a strange resemblance to McCarter, Shakespeare's Globe Theatre will play "As You Like It" next Wednesday, January 3 at 8 p.m., with the young actors of the Oxford and Cambridge Shakespeare Company on stage.

An instrumental consort of four will play the score composed by Henry Ward. This "As You Like It" will be the third consecutive visit of the Oxford-Cambridge players to McCarter. The O-C. researchers think, by the way, that "As You Like It" may have been the initial production of Shakespeare's company in the first Globe Theatre.

BACH ONLY

From Anthony Newman. "A keyboard technician of staggering facility," is the way the New York Times' music critic described Anthony Newman after hearing Mr. Newman's harpsichord embellishments and watching him perform at keyboard and pedals.

Mr. Newman will play both harpsichord and pedal harpsichord when he comes to McCarter Monday, January 8, at 8:30 p.m. in his Princeton debut.

He will devote his evening solely to the works of Bach. Record collectors know that his five recordings of Bach on both harpsichord and organ have sold more copies than records by any other contemporary keyboard performer except Glenn Gould.

GRAND OLD MAN?

Mulligan Coming. One of the giants of jazz for the past two decades, Gerry Mulligan, will join Dave Brubeck in the concert scheduled for McCarter on Friday, January 19 at 8 p.m.

Mulligan and his saxophone have been permanent guest stars with the Brubeck Trio since 1968. Before that, back in the early 1950s, the quartet led by Mulligan and Chet Baker was one of the pioneers of progressive jazz.

AUDITIONS!

For Annual Production. "The Wind in the Willows," scheduled to be the Pennington Players' annual children's production for this year, will be cast in auditions to be held next Thursday, January 4 at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, January 7 at 2 p.m. in the old Pennington Fire House, North Main Street.

The play will be given in March under the sponsorship of various civic groups in the Pennington area. Parts are available for adults, teen-agers and a few children. Jack Rees will direct.

'CARMEN' IN PRODUCTION

Coming to McCarter. It may seem a long way from starring as one of the three little pigs in "Babes in Toyland" to directing an opera like Bizet's "Carmen", but such versatility reflects the extraordinarily varied show business career of Edward Earle.

Along the way, Earle has been involved in more than 110 musicals, 6 of which he directed; has been on three national tours, and has now set-

SOUNDER: Paul Winfield gives a definitive performance as a devoted husband and father in the film about a family of black sharecroppers during the Depression, held over this week at the Garden Theatre.

tled in Stockton where he has continued his wide interest in all aspects of the stage, from directing Richard III at McCarter in 1964 to starring as Don Quixote in the Bucks County Playhouse's recent "Mancha". Besides acting and directing, Earle was also choreographer for the Lambertville Music Circus for five years, and by complete contrast recently initiated the Earle Theatre Cabaret at the Canal House in New Hope.

Ed Earle has taken the adage, "today is the first day of the rest of your life," to heart, and, as he says, "You've got to keep trying. That's why I've taken a crack at everything. I never know what's going to happen next and I don't like to plan too far ahead."

This is one of the reasons why Earle is currently directing the Princeton Opera Association's production of "Carmen" to take place at McCarter Theatre on January 23. Besides this, as Earle says, "I had worked with several P.O.A. members during recent musicals; for example Nancy Jackson (who will star as the gypsy, Carmen, at McCarter) in the "King and I", and also did some staging for their summer workshop program."

The challenge of directing an operatic masterpiece was another "first" which Ed Earle could not resist and it will be interesting to see the results of his theatrical flair applied to a classic such as "Carmen." Reservations for the Opera Association's January 23 production, which will be a benefit performance in aid of the Princeton Medical Center, Princeton, may be made through McCarter Theatre.

IN-THE-RIROUND

For "Black Comedy", Director Leo Cohen has staged the Princeton Community Players' production of "Black Comedy" in the round. The audience will be seated in rows surrounding the acting area — a platform has been designed especially for this production by Dirck Dimock.

"Black Comedy" will open January 12 at the Unitarian Church. It will play again Saturday and Sunday, January 13 and 14 and Thursday, Friday, Saturday, January 18, 19, 20. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. Tickets are available at Marsh's Pharmacy, 30 Nassau Street, and may be reserved at 921-6018. (The Sunday, January 14th, performance has been sold to the Unitarian Church.)

Theatre-in-the-round solves the problem of an actor having his back to the audience. There is no "fourth wall" effect; — instead of being in a room with one wall removed, the actors are exposed on all sides to the audience.

an epic length tale of 19th Century Swedish farmers emigrating to America. Beautiful to look at, with fine performances by Max von Sydow and Liv Ullmann.

The director is Jan Troell, a young Swedish filmmaker considered by many of his fellow countrymen to be the "new Ingmar Bergman." This, his third movie, won a best foreign film Academy Award nomination in Hollywood. It is the first half of an ambitious six-hour epic; part two, titled "Unto A Good Land", is currently in release in Sweden.

The performance of von Sydow and Ullmann alone make the film worth seeing, and while the three-hour running time may seem unnecessarily long, there are countless moments of loveliness to make it a rewarding film experience.

Based upon a quartet of novels by contemporary novelist Vilhelm Moberg, the movie is concerned with Karl Oskar and his wife Kristina, who have almost been defeated by the precariousness of nature — from poor crops to lightning destroying their barn — when they become attracted by the idea of emigrating to America. After an arduous journey by sea and land, they begin new lives in the mid-west.

Directed, photographed, edited and co-authored by Troell, "The Emigrants" is an intimate epic — lacking in great sweep and vision, but rich in the smallest details. It is rather like focusing on the colored threads of a needlepoint design.

GARDEN

Sounder (held over) is a very fine family drama about a year in the lives of a black sharecropper's family during the 1930's. A film that deals with people rather than slogans, its cast is excellent with Cicely Tyson in a standout in a relatively minor role.

Sounder, based upon the haunting novel by William H. Armstrong, tells the story of a young black boy in the Deep South who, at the age of six, [illegible] his father arrested for stealing in order to get money for the family, and the boy is left to do his father's work.

He meets a friendly white schoolteacher who sets him an truly adult problem — whether to abandon his family and raise himself by studying with the teacher or stay at home as the one pair of strong arms about. When his father returns, crippled by a prison accident, the choice becomes truly wrenching.

There are many short scenes that give the film its depth: the aging minister whose seemingly contradictory words comfort the grieving wife of the prisoner, the white woman (Carmen Mathews) trying to get up the nerve to sacrifice her reputation by helping a distressed black family, the young boy, played by Kevin Hooks, peering quietly though the prison camp gate, the tenant farmer (Paul Winfield) half quavering with fear of a young mother giving her children a dangerous on the long walk to town. The latter role is played by Cicely Tyson, and there are a actresses who understand and a part as well as she understands this one.

The musical score includes some fine harmonica work by Taj Mahal and a recording of Lou Rawls singing "Don't You Hear Jesus Weep Over Here?"

CONCERT PLANNERS Discussing plans for a special spring concert by the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra in Princeton are Mrs. Thomas Paine of Princeton and Symphony Music Director Henry Lewis. The concert, to be held April 12 at McCarter Theatre, will feature violinist Isaac Stern as soloist.

Police raided McEwen residence in December, 1971 and confiscated 55 bags of heroin. He managed to escape by climbing out a bathroom window but was arrested two days later. For the past 11 months, he has been in Mercer County Jail, waiting for his trial and sentencing.

Mercer County Assistant Prosecutor Howard Golden told Judge Bennett that Princeton Township and Borough had been relatively free of drugs during the period McEwen was in jail. McEwen himself was described as an addict for more than 20 years who supported a 35-bag habit of heroin a day.

STUDENT, GIRL CHARGED With Marijuana Possession. Stephan Pearson, 21, 141 Henry Hall, Princeton University and a 15-year-old Lawrence Township girl, have been charged with possession of under 25 grams of marijuana by Township Patrolman Peter Savelli.

They were later released in their own recognizance to await a hearing January 3 in Township court.

The narcotics charge came as a result of a car accident on Princeton-Kingston Road near Dodds Lane about midnight Thursday in which Mr. Pearson and the girl were involved.

Police said that Mr. Pearson's car ran off the road at 11:55 and struck a tree, causing extensive damage to his car. He was ticketed by Ptl. Savelli for careless driving.

Heroin Charge Made. William E. Diringer, 26, 9 Pine Street, was arrested at his home Thursday by Borough police, and charged with possession of heroin and possession of narcotic paraphernalia. He was later released in $250 bail to await a court hearing January 3.

Mr. Diringer was originally charged on December 3 but police held up on his arrest pending the findings of a state police laboratory. Police said that the alleged drug offense took place at the rear of 248 Nassau Street.

SUSPECT IS CAUGHT In House Theft. Craig Bullock, 22, 102½ Leigh Avenue, a suspect in the December 1 breaking and entry at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Garrity, 98 Leigh, was arrested Saturday on Leigh Avenue by Patrolman Renn Kaminski and Ptl. Howard Sweeney.

Charged with breaking and entering and larceny, he was released in his own recognizance to await an appearance in Township court on January 3.

Among the items taken from the home were a television set, stereo, camera, hair dryer and liquor.

THREE WOMEN VICTIMS Of Purse Snatchers. Borough police reported three separate purse-snatching incidents last week.

A resident of Illinois, accompanied by her husband, was about to enter the main door of the Nassau Inn at 10:15 on Christmas Eve when an "unidentified culprit" pulled her pocketbook from her arm and fled toward the Princeton Playhouse parking lot. The victim lost $20 and a $10 gold pin.

The pocketbook was recovered the next day on a side walk near the Baptist Church off Avalon Place. The contents were scattered all over, reported Lt. Theodore Lewis.

Around 1:30 Saturday afternoon a Borough woman walking alone on Witherspoon Street near Witherspoon Lane noticed a youth coming toward her. Police quoted her as saying she didn't realize the youth had grabbed her purse until she turned around to see where he was going.

She lost $1.50. She told police that she estimated the age of the thief, who fled down Lytle Street, as between 16 and 19.

Two Suspects Arrested. Borough police have arrested two juvenile suspects in connection with a purse snatching Friday evening on Witherspoon Street near Lytle.

Direct identification of the two was made by Borough Councilman Joseph Moore, who, police said, saw the two youths running from the area

Recreation Activities

the Joint Recreation Commission

Arts and crafts are popular in Princeton. The Princeton Recreation Department, as part of its continuing effort in providing varied recreational activities, is sponsoring an Arts and Crafts program for children in grades 3-8.

Under the direction of Miss Carol Sinkler, the boys and girls have already undertaken projects in candle making, decoupage, and papier mache. The talents of the class participants will be tested in the weeks to come in working with clay, linoleum blocks, plaster of paris, wire molding and basketry. Miss Sinkler is hopeful that the accomplishments of the youngsters will be on display at the John Witherspoon Library in the months ahead. The class meets each Saturday morning from 9 until 12 at the John Witherspoon School Art Room.

Miss Sinkler is planning to begin a girls' gymnastics program in the girls' gym at Princeton High School on Saturday afternoons, starting January 6. The program will run from 2 through 4 and is designed for girls in grades 4-8. Pre-registration is necessary; those interested should call the recreation office at 921-9480.

They are being processed by Borough juvenile officer Douglas Watson.

The victim, a Township resident, was uninjured. She told police that she became aware of two youths approaching her from behind. As she turned, one grabbed her purse. She lost $20 in cash and jewelry valued at $30.

TWO HOMES ENTERED

In Township. Township police report the entry of two homes last week.

From the home of Karl D. Pettit, Ridgeview Road, thieves stole a $350 television set between 12:30 and 2:30 Friday afternoon. Nothing else was taken.

A rear-door had been forced to get inside. Pfl. Jerry Offredo investigated.

On Christmas eve at 5:15, the home of Denes Koppanyi, 138 Alexander Street, was broken into but nothing was taken.

A bedroom was ransacked by the intruder who was apparently frightened off when the residents returned home. He was described as a black, in his 20s, 5-10 to 5-11, wearing dark clothing with a white hat that had a tri-colored band around it.

Entry was through a rear window. Police said that a screen over the window had been cut.

WALLET IS STOLEN

From Car In Garage. Mrs. Ann Macleod, 70, Jefferson Road, called police Friday to report that someone had ransacked the glove compartment of her car the day before while it was parked in their garage. She lost $15.

The wallet was found later in a car owned by Mrs. Daniel Bloch, 61 Jefferson. Borough police said that Mrs. Bloch's car, parked in her driveway, had also been ransacked but nothing was taken.

Clerk's Purse Taken. Ellen Kerch, an employee at Bellow's 210 Nassau Street, reported to police on Thursday that her purse containing $35 had been stolen. She said that she had left it in a dressing room in the store.

A student at the Princeton Theological Seminary, R. Trinity Baskeran, 118 Brown Hall, reported his brown leather wallet stolen from his room Thursday evening between 7 and 8 p.m.

Mr. Baskeran lost $15. His wallet was found later on Dickinson Street by another student.

JUNCTION YOUTH CHARGE

With Shoplifting. Ralph Matarese, 19, of 14 Berrien Court, Princeton Junction, was charged last week with shoplifting in Bamberger's in the Princeton Shopping Center.

Robert Harwood of the store's security department arrested the youth and charged him with allegedly taking a leather belt without paying for it. Matarese faces a January 3 hearing in Township Court.

OWNER IS NOT AMUSED

At Car Strip. An MG Midget sport car, parked in the open at 50 Southern Way, is being stripped piece-by-piece by someone, Township police said, who is apparently rebuilding a car of the same make.

So far a radial tire and spoke rim valued in excess of $100, a gear shift knob and an "MG" emblem have been removed from the car in separate thefts. Police, who identified the owned to police Thursday that her they have a good lead on the thefts and are continuing their investigation.

Use of Film on Nazis Hit.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

In re: recent incident at Community Park School:

It is suggested herewith that a majority of Princeton residents should unanimously implement the expulsion from public office of whoever was or were responsible for befouling the opening of the Xmas season by obliging the children of others to view on film the horrors of Nazi concentration camps.

Editor's Note:: The film in question was shown as part of an eighth grade Social Studies project on World War II.

PHS Choir Lauded.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Last night in Princeton University's Chapel, the residents of Princeton were provided with another "treat" by the choir of Princeton High School.

Over the past few years, so many negative things regarding the young men and women of our High School have been reported on, that I felt compelled to bring to the attention of these students how much pleasure their yearly Winter Concert brings to me and countless others from our community.

It is sheer delight to find people of all kinds brought together for an evening like last night; and it's the true spirit of our holiday season. A thousand and one thanks to the choir and my hat's off to a musical department (that's second to none!) for making this and like programs possible.

I sincerely hope our community will support the Choir's fund drive so that these young people may go abroad and bring to others the enjoyment that we're so fortunate to have.

"Apart From the Crowd," a documentary film produced by The Production Staff, a Princeton film company based at 66 Witherspoon Street, will be televised nationally on the Public Broadcasting System Friday, December 29, at 8 p.m.

Originally shown on New Jersey's Channel 52, the film centers on several people around the state and how they try and solve their need for a sense of individuality. Their occupations cover a wide spectrum including a research psychologist, a truckdriver, a weaver, a furniture stripper, a factory foreman, a commune experience and a computer programmer.

this fall of a youth in a burglary shop on Witherspoon Street.

Louis A. Dallenbach of Hightstown was fined $60 for discharging a firearm in violation of a Borough ordinance. William Gardener Jr. of Freehold, proprietor of Algon's Sub Shop, 157 Witherspoon Street, where the shooting took place, was charged with failure to obtain a firearms permit. He waived a preliminary hearing and his papers were sent to the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office for processing.

RATINGS RAISED

For Two Restaurants. Two Borough restaurants have been given "satisfactory" ratings by the state under the new sanitary code.

Originally, Buxton's and P.J.'s Pancake House were given 'conditional' certificates only, however, after a second inspection, state sanitary inspectors raised the level to "satisfactory," the highest possible rating.

. . . IN WEST WINDSOR

Candidates File. Three candidates have indicated so far that they will run for the West Windsor-Plainsboro Regional School Board.

John Versnel, incumbent, and Elfriede Dilatush will run for the two seats available this year from Plainsboro. Incumbent Philip Rudefeld is not running again.

James Bottomley has filed for the one seat allocated this year in West Windsor. Five petitions are still out.

At the school board meeting this Thursday at 8 p.m. in Maurice Hawk School, Mrs. Perry Gurin, chairman of the board's Education Planning Committee, will propose formally that the district cooperate with the state as a pilot district in the state's Education Goals development program.

The board will also hear a progress report on construction of the new high school, and will adopt the budget. The total budget amount is still under discussion.

LLOYD TERRACE TARGET

Of Runaway Car. A small, foreign, runaway car last week caused considerable damage to Lloyd Terrace, the housing project for the elderly off Harrison Street, and to the car itself but no injuries to the driver, Jennie K. Caruso, 71, of Lloyd Terrace.

Pfc. Bernard Leonhardt charged Mrs. Caruso with careless driving and, because of her age, recommended that she be re-examined by the Motor Vehicle Department. It was raining at the time of the mishap—9 a.m., Thursday.

According to the police report, the Caruso car left a stall in the parking lot off Lloyd Terrace Circle, jumped the curb and collided with the east wall of building 186 in the project. It continued on and next struck a wall supporting a second floor balcony at the same building, knocking the wall completely down.

Next, the car continued down a slope, through a flower and rock garden and collided with and snapped a support corner post of building 183. Still moving, the car continued for another 93 feet across lawns until it struck a tree in front of 88 Harrison Street. The Borough Engineering Department later built a temporary support for the second floor balcony at 186 to replace the wall that was knocked down.

Mrs. Caruso told police that she had experienced trouble in turning her new car and placing it in gear. She said that the car just "took off and I had no control. I was flying around inside the car."

INSTALLATION PLANNED

By Lawrence Senior Citizens. The next meeting of the Senior Citizens Club of Lawrence Township will be held at 1 Tuesday, January 9, at American Legion Headquarters, 10 Berwyn Place. Installation of the following newly elected officers will take place, Mayor Joseph F. Pazze, Jr., officiating.

Mrs. Martha Goodwin, president, Raymond Hillpot, vice president; Mrs. Nellie Buxton, secretary, Donald Mathews, treasurer.

Borough Residents, Are You There?

If you are, Borough Hall wants to thank you for the patience you showed during the recent leaf-collection season, and ask your continued cooperation if it should happen to snow.

Leaf-collecting sometimes ran a week or ten days behind schedule because of the weather, and practically nobody complained, says Administrator Robert F. Mooney.

Now, about the inevitable snow: in the first place, it's always illegal to park your car overnight on a Borough street. In winter, this prohibition is doubly important because if cars are parked on streets, the snowplows can't get through.

So, if we have a heavy snow in the daytime, would you park in your driveway, instead of at the curbside. And if the snow comes after dark, be sure to get your car off the street.

And a final word in January, your dog license is due.

By Historical Society. A Tuesday morning lecture series has been announced by the Historical Society of Princeton.

On Tuesday, January 9, James R. Mitchell, Curator of Decorative Arts for the N.J. State Museum will discuss early New Jersey chairs. His lecture is entitled, "Don't Relax on That Piece of Furniture, It's a New Jersey Chair." Previously, the assistant curator of the Bennington Museum in Vermont, Mr. Mitchell will illustrate his talk with New Jersey chairs.

The following Tuesday, Mrs. Barbara Johnson, president of the Museum of American Folk Art in New York, will discuss, "Scrimshaw, The Art of the Whaleman." A Princeton resident, Mrs. Johnson is widely known for her collection of scrimshaw and items pertaining to the whaling industry.

Next, William L. Iorio, director of the Iorio Glass Museum in Flemington will lecture on "Glass Through the Ages." Mr. Iorio is a collector of glass and will illustrate his talk with pieces from his collection, some dating from 1500 B.C.

On the last Tuesday in January, "Hints on Antique Buying and Preservation" will be the topic of R. D. Richey, owner of the Little Old Mill in Princeton Junction. Mr. Richey is an authority on furniture restoration. Among the things he will point out is how to tell the difference between an authentic antique and a fake.

Annual Meeting 17th. The Society's annual meeting will be held January 17 at 8 p.m. in the Lounge of the Engineering Quadrangle, Olden Street.

After the election of officers and directors, Bruce French will speak on the past history of the Society, Nathaniel Burt will comment on the present history and Mrs. Nancy Knox on the future history of the organization.

The Society will round out a busy month by hosting a lecture on the 28th by Carl L. Crossman who will discuss, "China Trade Port Painters." He is the author of the recently published book, "The China Trade".

RECYCLING TO RESUME

In Hopewell Township. Christmas trees will be recycled in Hopewell Valley, Saturday, January 6 and Saturday, January 13 in the parking lot behind the Hopewell Township Municipal Hall at Scotch Road and Route 546 from 8 to noon.

The Hopewell Township Environmental Protection Commission urges all residents to bring their trees to this location. Anyone bringing a container may have chips to take home.

This event will mark the resumption of recycling in Hopewell Township. A regular collection of glass, metal and paper will begin, Saturday, January 20 from 9 to noon at the Township landfill located at Route 31 and Marshalls Corner Woodsville Road. This new recycling center will be open the first and third Saturday each month.

Those who wish to volunteer their help or who have questions about the program may call Stella Stewart, Chairman of the Hopewell Township Environmental Protection Commission at 737-7000 or Herbert Jordan, Township Clerk at 737-0609.

These instructions should be followed:

1. All items must be clean. 2. Separate glass by color: brown, green, clear. Remove metal caps and rings. 3. Remove paper wrappers and labels from metal. 4. Newspapers and magazines should be tied in neat bundles or placed in grocery bags which may also be recycled.

The trip is part of a new program which provides for the exchange of groups of young businessmen between paired Rotary districts in different countries to promote better understanding among the peoples of the world.

Those men selected will be accompanied by a Rotarian, who will be in charge. The transportation costs will be paid by the Rotary Foundation and the room, board and traveling expenses in Israel will be assumed by the host District Rotarians.

Applicants must be between the ages of 25 and 35, a resident of District 751, which includes Union, Hunterdon, Somerset, Mercer, Middlesex, Monmouth and Ocean counties, and not a Rotarian, or a close relative of one.

Former Princetonians Mark 25th Anniversary of First Transistor

Twenty-five years ago this month three New Jersey scientists—two of whom studied or taught at Princeton University—successfully completed and demonstrated a device which has since changed the life style of almost the entire population of the world.

With a small group of colleagues gathered around them at Bell Telephone Laboratories in Murray Hill, the three physicists on December 23, 1947, demonstrated the "transfer resistor" effect that amplified a speech signal about 20 times. Drs. Walter Brattain, John Bardeen and William Shockley could not fully appreciate it at the time, but the transistor age was born.

What was to follow, after several more years of coordinated research and development by the Bell System, was the world's first commercial application of transistors. It occurred in October, 1952, when they were used as replacements for vacuum tubes in long distance switching equipment in a New Jersey Bell Telephone Company central office in Englewood.

Soon after, consumer products now taken for granted began appearing—pocket radios, "invisible" hearing aids, heart pacemakers, electronic musical instruments, desk calculators—as well as new scientific capabilities like communication satellites and men landing on the moon. The Bell Labs invention made possible all of these and more, such as a solid-state electronics industry which will reach nearly $3 billion in sales this year in the United States, Europe and Japan.

Nobel Prize Winners. In 1956, Drs. Bardeen, Brattain and Shockley won the Nobel Prize for their transistor discovery. On December 10, Bardeen was awarded an unprecedented second Nobel Prize in physics, becoming the first person ever to win two in the same scientific field.

In commemoration of the Bell Labs discovery, Governor William T. Cahill has declared this "Transistor Week." Gov. Cahill signed an official proclamation marking the occasion during a brief ceremony last week in Trenton.

Dr. Brattain worked at Bell Labs from 1929 until his retirement in 1967. During most of this time he lived in Summit and Chatham Township.

When asked if he was aware 25 years ago of the great impact the transistor would have on our society, Dr. Brattain said: "I think we knew at the time that the transistor was not just a substitute for the vacuum tube and that it was opening a new area of electronics. But I don't think I had any idea that the development would come quite as rapidly and go to the great extent that it has today."

Knew Einstein. Dr. Bardeen lived in Summit while working in Murray Hill from 1945 to 1951. He received his doctorate in physics in 1936 at Princeton University, where he became an acquaintance of the late Dr. Albert Einstein.

Dr. Bardeen's reaction to the transistor age is similar to Dr. Brattain's. "It's gone a great deal further than I could have imagined at that time. We knew we were on to something very important and that transistors would have many applications—particularly where power was an important consideration—but (we) had no idea of the actual revolution which has occurred."

Dr. Shockley, who is now a professor at Stanford University, said he did not realize the importance of their discovery until about two years later. "By that time we felt we had opened up a field as big as the entire field of vacuum and gaseous electronics which was then the foundation of electronics," he said.

In 1946 he was a visiting lecturer at Princeton University and in 1956, the year he shared the Nobel Prize, he received an honorary doctorate in science from Rutgers University.

What would the world be like today if the transistor had not been discovered 25 years ago by the three New Jersey scientists?

Computers would be much less reliable, bulkier, slower and probably too expensive for wide use. Space exploration and communication satellites, which have made possible intercontinental television viewing, would not have achieved their present degree of sophistication.

Numerous modern medical techniques, such as the pacemaker and electrocardiograms which can be monitored via the telephone, would not have been possible. Small transistorized radios, which some feel saved the radio broadcast industry, never would have been developed.

In general, our society would be less mobile and our life style more staid. Miniaturization, made possible by the transistor invention is here to stay, and has contributed to the downfall of an old American idea that bigger is better.

Journals of 3 French Offieers on Ameriean Revolution Are Published by University Press

Three young officers came to this country nearly 200 years ago with Rochambeau's army, and their journals, translated by Howard C. Rice Jr. and Anne S. K. Brown, give a fresh perspective to the American rebellion.

The journals are published in full for the first time, in the two-volume "The American Campaigns of Rochambeau's Army 1780, 1781, 1782, 1783," a joint effort by Princeton University Press and Brown University Press.

One of the journal writers, Louis Alexandre Berthier, was destined to become Napoleon's chief of staff, a partnership that lasted for 18 years. Another, Jean-Francois Louis, comte de Clermont-Crevecoeur, was a member of an illustrious but impoverished family of the French provincial aristocracy, who later decided to follow the King into exile and for 20 years lived the precarious life of an emigre officer.

The third author, Jean-Baptist Antoine de Verger, was born into the ruling class of the Bishopric of Bale, one of the petty states of the Holy Roman Empire, and served throughout the American campaign in one of France's foreign regiments, the Royal Deux Ponts. He ultimately served on the Bavarian General Staff.

Their journals are lively, filled with youthful enthusiasm and curiosity. It was a great adventure, reflected in their fascinated comments on the characters and customs of Americans and their ladies. They write of Indians, Negroes, the Continental soldier, and their leaders.

From Verger's journal: "The American Continental troops are very war-wise and quite well-disciplined. They are thoroughly inured to hardship, which they endure with little complaint so long as their officers set them an example, but it is imperative that the officers equal their troops in firmness and resolution. They have supreme confidence in General Washington and march with courage and enthusiasm behind the Marquis de La Fayette."

Strategy. Taken together, the journals provide a vivid, comprehensive account of the French army's campaigns. There are inserts of accounts of recent military events in which they were not immediately involved but which were inserted as a matter of course, as a part of their military education.

"What is remarkable about this operation of General Washington's is that, being encamped in a very poor position facing the English at Princeton (Trenton)," Clermont Crevecoeur wrote, "he must have expected Lord Cornwallis to attack him at daybreak. His poor position and the inferiority of his force facing the English prompted him to slip away during the night and fight the English on the road to Princeton. Had his army not been exhausted by several forced marches, he was planning to continue on to Brunswick to capture the rest of the British before Lord Cornwallis arrived."

The journals describe the French army's departure from Brest, an encounter with the British navy off the Bermudas, the arrival in Newport and the winter headquarters there.

Yorktown. In the spring of 1781, Rochambeau marched across Connecticut to meet Washington's Continentals on the Hudson. They moved rapidly down through New Jersey and Pennsylvania to Delaware, Maryland and Virginia, ending in the battle of Yorktown, where the American army, with the aid of the Rochambeau forces and the French navy, won the independence of this nation.

The two-volume book includes six itineraries, or road books, compiled by the French staff officers. The descriptions are so detailed that it is still possible to follow the route taken and to identify the landmarks. The maps themselves are fine examples of French military cartography and are of great significance to military historians, as well as to local historians.

The editor translators have prefaced the journals with biographical sketches of the authors. The maps are accompanied by descriptive notes and a commentary, and much insight is gained by the editors' foot notes to the journals.

Howard C. Rice Jr., emeritus assistant librarian for rare books and special collections at Princeton, is a doctor of the University of Paris, a veteran historian of Franco American relations and editor of Chastellux's "Travels in North America."

Anne S. K. Brown is a noted military collector as well as a founder and former president of the Company of Military Historians. She is the translator and editor of "The Anatomy of Glory," the English edition of "Napoleon et la Garde Imperiale" by Henry Lachouque.

"The American Campaigns of Rochambeau's Army" is a dynamic contribution to the basic literature of the American Revolution. An exhibition marking its publication is on view in the Firestone Library. (List price $100, discount price of $85 is available through December 31.)

PEOPLE In The News

F. C. Wiser of 15 Hibben Road, attended the recent meeting in Brussels of the International Federation of Multiple Sclerosis Societies. The federation was formed in 1968 and is composed of 17 national MS societies whose work is directed towards new research and developing new clinical procedures for the disease which so often strikes young adults between ages 30 and 40. Mr. Wiser is president of Trans World Airlines.

Princeton University has designated Bruce H. Edwards, 40, of 3 Meadow Road, West Windsor, as associate director of personnel services. He will serve as general deputy for William S. Reed, the newly-appointed director.

Mr. Edwards has been an administrator at Princeton since 1956. He was associated with the plasma physics laboratory and was personnel director at the James Forrestal campus before becoming, in 1965, an asistant director of personnel services. A native of Trenton, and the son of Mrs. Anna Edwards of 475 Logan Avenue, Trenton, and the late Cecil J. Edwards, he is married to the former Shirley Van Marter, also of Trenton. The couple have three daughters and a son.

Alvin Schwartz of 50 Southern Way has just published "Hobbies, A Complete Guide to Crafts, Collections, Nature Study and Other Life-long Pursuits" through Simon and Schuster. It introduces in considerable detail some 25 leisure time activities and suggests even more. The illustrations are by his wife, Barbara.

"Hobbies" is family oriented, and details equipment, how-to and sources of further information, as well as pitfalls for a newcomer. It gives enough information to get started on a new hobby, inviting consideration of some unusual pursuits, such as making paper, printing by press, weather forecasting, woodcarving and whittling. Also included are such hobbies as ceramics, weaving, autograph collecting, ham radio, astronomy, archaeology, bird watching, nature studies of fish, insects, rocks, plants, shells and more.

A children's book by Mr Schwartz has been cited as one of the 50 outstanding youth books of the year by the New York Times Book Review. Titled "A Twister of Twists, a Tangler of Tongues" and published by J. B. Lippincott Company, the book is a collection of tongue twisters.

Mr. Schwartz has written profusely during the past ten years. He has written on games and folklore, travel and nature, on museums, labor unions, urban problems, politics and public opinion. A graduate of Colby College with an M.S. in journalism from Northwestern University, he is a former newspaperman and has taught part-time at Rutgers University for many years.

A Special Seminar on Alpha Brain Wave Function and E.S.P., . . .

Wednesday, Jan. 3
Thursday, Jan. 4

In June, a national magazine, Newsweek, featured a special article on "Probing the Brain."

In this article discussion was focused on one of the most fantastic breakthroughs in modern psychology, a new science dealing with the conscious control of brain waves —the electrochemical activity of the brain. This new science is called Alphagenics ,and concerns itself with the Alpha Rhythms of the brain. Noted researchers discussed how any individual can learn to function at lower levels, control their brain waves and revealed some of the phenomenal capabilities of man with self-control of his brain waves.

There are four principal brain wave rhythms: the Beta-wave, associated with the outer conscious levels, tensions anxiety, physical activity, etc., the Alpha wave, associated with inner levels of mental activity; tranquility, inspiration, creativity, E.S.P., healing processes, memory learning, daydreaming and other phenomena: Theta-waves, which are related to deeper inner meditation mental control of pain, and finally the Delta-waves, which are found in deep sleep or total unconciousness.

Exploration of this almost unknown continent — the human brain — has been pioneered by a soft-spoken parapsychologist, Joe Silva, of the Institute of Psychorientology, of Laredo, Texas. This sincere dedicated scientist has been training people to function at different levels of brain waves for many years. Twenty-six years ago Silva and his associates began their research in Mind Control to see if it was possible to increase a person's I Q factor . . . Amazingly, Silva discovered that not only could I Q be increased but a person trained in this technique could even learn to control certain areas of the Automatic Systems, heart beat, respiration, body temperature, etc. The implications of this breakthrough with regard to health and disease were staggering. With Mind Control Techniques it was found that in many cases people could banish pain, accelerate healing, eliminate insomnia, migraine headaches, as well as untold psychosomatic problems.

As research continued, an amazing discovery was made. Volunteer students were found to be surprisingly sensitive to the feelings and emotional attitudes of others. In other words they became more intuitive. In-depth studies revealed that anyone with a normal brain and sufficient training could develop so-called E.S.P. and clairvoyance. Alpha Brain Wave Functioning actually enables anyone to become a superior human being.

Classes Now In 100 Cities

Six years ago the directors of the Institute of Psychorientology decided they were ready to release their findings to the general public, and offer the M.C. Training Program to everyone interested in developing a better mind.

Over 75,000 graduates — Coast to Coast

Now there is no longer any doubt as to the great value of this astounding method of self improvement.

Techniques have been improved and refined to the point that only a few hours of classroom instruction were all that was required to train a truly effective person.

Learn Specific Techniques

Once you have mastered Alpha Brain Wave Functioning, you have better control over anxiety and tension. You can banish insomnia and eliminate pain — unlearn bad habits such as smoking, overeating, drinking, etc., and create good new ones anytime you desire. Your artistic and learning capacity will increase along with your vitality, energy, and self-confidence. You'll be happier and more successful in both the personal and business aspects of your life. What's more, Alpha Brain Wave techniques will make you able to help your loved ones in dramatic and effective ways regardless of their troubles. In short, you'll be a better student, parent, employee, or employer, became a truly effective problem-solver, a more dynamic person—whatever you'd like to be!

Silva Method of Mind Control

Alpha Brain Wave Functioning literally opens the door to the "Promised Land" — the kingdom within. Through simple, easily learned techniques you can have your heart's desires, become the person you want to be.

Results Guaranteed

It sounds almost too good to be true, yet the facts are that with Silva Mind Control "Almost Nothing Is Too Good To Be True." Learn how to use the key that unlocks the door to your innerconscious mind and release the abundant wealth, power and possibilities within.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you

By John Bernard

Here's one of the most fascinating football stories of all-time . . . Perhaps you know it, perhaps you don't . . . Back in 1942, Boston College was the number one team in the country . . . They were undefeated going into the last game with Holy Cross . . . They were heavily favored, and made reservations to hold a victory celebration after the game at a place called the Coconut Grove . . . However, in one of the greatest upsets in football history, Holy Cross not only beat Boston, but they beat them by the unbelievable score of 55-12 . . . The crushed Boston College officials naturally cancelled the "Victory" party . . . Then, that night the Coconut Grove burned in one of the worst disasters in history with 492 people losing their lives . . . The Boston College football players all might have been killed except for the fact that they lost a football game that afternoon . . . Fate plays strange tricks, doesn't it?

Did you know that in the old days of football, the coaches didn't want their players to wear numbers on their uniforms . . . They thought it would be better if everybody — opponents and fans — were confused about who was carrying the ball . . . Most teams didn't start wearing numbers until the 1920s, and then they were very small and usually worn on the back only . . . The rule requiring teams to wear big numbers on both the back and front of their jerseys was not passed until 1937.

TIGERS IN TOURNAMENT

At Philadelphia. Happy to be 4-3 after its first seven games with a squad that lacks both a superstar and bench strength Princeton's basketball team is in the Quaker City Tournament at the Palestra seeking a clue to its own identity.

The Tigers have gone from the ridiculous to truly terrible performance against an unimpressive Penn State quintet) to the sublime (their convincing, come-from-behind conquest of second ranked Florida State. They have, actually, lost three games they might well have won, whereas all four of their victories were upsets—three of them (over Davidson and Virginia, as well as Florida State) of major proportions.

In the Palestra, they were scheduled to open against a tall New Mexico State quintet at 3 Wednesday afternoon. The opposition boasts a seven foot center, but players of that height are not unfamiliar to the Tigers. Florida State, which the Orange and Black dominated in the second half, had a front three who stood 7 feet, 6-11 and 6-8.

Depending on the outcome of Wednesday's game, Princeton will face either Duquesne or Georgia on Thursday, playing in the afternoon if it is a match up of losers and at night if it has won. If the Tigers drop their first two, they'll come home, waiting until Friday, January 5, for a game against Harvard at Cambridge to see action again. If they win at least one of their first two games in Philadelphia, they will play again on Saturday. Other teams in the tournament field are Southern California, St. Joseph's, LaSalle and Rhode Island.

Kapler the Key. Bill Kapler whose presence last year might have lifted the Tigers past Penn to the Ivy League championship, has been the primary factor in the uneven but unexpected success of the current Princeton quintet. Knee surgery in November of 1971 benched him for his junior year, and he still does not have the mobility he once knew.

But he does have most of the top defensive moves, occasionally coming up with the most spectacular of all, blocking a shot and recovering the deflection. Although Andy Rimol is an inch or so taller, Kapler now plays center and thereby draws the biggest man the opposition starts.

Kaps didn't start in the Tigers' opener against Penn State but the woeful rebounding in that loss was readily apparent, and he has been a regular ever since, despite his tendency to shoot infrequently. At least one of the upsets the Orange and Black has recorded this season has seen him listed 0-0-0 in the boxscore; his defensive skills don't show in the small type, but have been reflected in the outcome of the game itself.

Another player who did not start in the first game but has since contributed to the Tigers' surge is sophomore Brien O'Neill. When he first played, it was as a replacement for senior Jim Sullivan at guard; thereafter, he has been the third member of the forward line with Kapler and Rimol despite the fact that he is only 6-2.

O'Neill has what the rest of the starters lack—speed. The few steals and fast-breaks Princeton has achieved this year have often seen him as a key figure.

His play has been inconsistent, as a sophomore's often is, and he was well short of his potential in the Marshall Tournament in West Virginia. An inconsistent shooter, he has nonetheless been accurate at the foul line under maximum pressure and is averaging 9 points a game.

Rimol, too, has had his good games and his poor ones, despite the fine sophomore year he had against numerous more experienced opponents. He still tends to draw excess fouls in the early going, and his point production of 8.6 per game is markedly below last season's. However, his shooting range extends further from the basket than that of many big men, so his conversion from center to forward should not be a deterrent to scoring potential.

If Kapler's defensive ability has welded the team together, the added scoring that Captain Ted Manakas has produced is a close second to Princeton's unanticipated blessings. With Brian Taylor's 25-point average in the record book instead of being available for another year, even topflight defensive play required more points to be effective.

Manakas has done the trick, hitting for a career high of 29 points in the four-point triumph over Davidson and throwing in a spectacular 27 in the low-scoring (61-59) upset of Florida State. He is averaging 19.3 per game, compared to 14.2 a year ago. When you consider the fact that the four-game Princeton streak over Rutgers, Davidson Virginia and Florida State was achieved by a total of 14 points, it doesn't require much arithmetic to measure the contributions of a man whose scoring during those games was worth 20 points more than last year.

Manakas, is, of course, the complete basketball player whose lack of speed is virtually his only limitation. Time and again, his ball handling and direction against an all-court press have enabled the Tigers to win close contests when inability to withstand pressure would have meant defeat.

Bench Lacks Bird. The missing cog in the personnel of this year's squad is the absence of Reggie Bird, last winter's Super Sub whose agility often regained lost momentum for Princeton. Not only is there no one close to Bird's stature available on the bench, but the Tigers take on a slightly make-shift appearance when one of the starters needs relief.

There may be greater use in the weeks ahead of Joe Vavricka, a 6-5 junior whose progress has been slowed by injuries but for whose promise Coach Pete Carril has expressed a liking. Sophomore Jim Flores, a 6-8 forward, will gain in value as he gains ex perience, and Bill Daake, the 6-8 senior who sat out last season, may occasionally fit into the need for reserve strength But a sixth man such as Bird comes along once in a decade, and the fact that no one this year is close to replacing him will hamper the Tigers with considerable frequency.

GUEST OF HONOR: R. Kenneth Fairman, who retires this week as Princeton University's Director of Athletics, is seen here with the three Presidents of Princeton under whom he served a total of 38 years. Left to right: Harold W. Dodds, the University's 15th President (1934-1957); Mr. Fairman; President William G. Bowen, inducted as Princeton's 17th President on June 30, and Robert F. Goheen, whose service as 16th President spanned 15 years (1957-1972). Mr. Fairman was honored at a dinner in Jadwin Gymnasium at which the principal speakers included University Trustee Redmond C. S. Finney, Headmaster of the Gilman School, Baltimore, Md., and DeLaney Kiphuth, Director of Athletics at Yale.

Quakers Favored. Penn, nationally ranked again and 5-0 as the week began, remains the team to beat in the Ivy League The Quakers lost enough from last year so that they do not appear quite as strong, but last year's runner-up—Princeton—is not either.

The question mark is Harvard, where Coach Floyd Harrison, has had consistent problems putting all his good material together. Despite their promising showing in pre-league action, it appears too much to expect the Tigers to unseat Penn; if Harvard isn't up to it, no one else is.

None of the other five teams among the Ivies are likely to catch Penn, Princeton or Harvard. Darmouth can be troublesome, but Cornell is again beset by player-coach confrontations (the team's top scorer was bounced from the squad ten days ago.)

Columbia, Yale and Brown lack the personnel to make a run for it, although there are signs that Brown, long the league doormat, will improve markedly next year if not this. The Bruins and the Elis have split the only two games played so far, each winning at home All teams will be in action in back-to-back contests the first weekend of the new year, with Princeton going to Cambridge and then Hanover for its toughest two-game road trip

HONOR FOR FAIRMAN

As "Distinguished American, R. Kenneth Fairman, who is retiring after thirty-five years as Princeton University's top athletic administrator, has been named recipient of this year's Distinguished American Award by the Delaware Valley Chapter of the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame.

Chapter President Donald Ehret announced that Fairman will receive the award at the annual dinner on February 12 to be held in the West Trenton Fire Department's banquet hall. Each year, the Chapter, through this award, seeks to honor "a former player who has carried the lessons learned on the football field into a life of service to the community."

A native of Spring Valley, N.Y. and one of the top all-around athletes in Princeton's modern-day athletic annals, Fairman in 1947 became the first Chairman of the then newly organized Department of Athletics and Physical Education. Under his direction, the department administers all phases of Princeton's wide-ranging physical activity program, including 21 different branches of intercollegiate sports for men in which over 50 teams and crews participate annually. In addition, Princeton now provides a growing women's intercollegiate athletic program encompassing nine sports.

Fairman's department is also responsible for an intramural athletic program in which better than 60 percent of the student body takes part, plans and staffs the physical education programs for freshmen, and provides as much support as possible for informal club teams in several areas.

An architecture major in the Class of 1934 at Princeton, Fairman was voted 1934's "Best All-Around Athlete". He won eight varsity letters (three each in football and basketball and two in lacrosse) and captained the basketball team in his senior year. He was winner of both the John P. Poe Cup, football's highest award, and the B. Franklin Bunn Award, top basketball honor.

SKATERS FACE BUFFALO

In Nichols Tournament. Fighting to break out of a four game losing skein, Princeton's hockey team meets Buffalo Friday in first night action of the annual Nichols Invitational Tournament The game is the nightcap of a doubleheader which sees St Lawrence oppose Vermont in the opener

Inability to capitalize on scoring opportunities has been responsible as much as any single factor, for the Tiger difficulties to date After popping in five goals in a heartbreaking final-minute setback against Providence, the Straters rebounded to blank St. Anselm's, 3 0 Even here, numerous scoring chances failed to come off

Sports In Princeton

A two-night trip to Boston resulted in 8-0 and 6-1 defeats at the hands of Northeastern and Boston University. Coach Bill Quackenbush was not disheartened by Tiger play against the powerful Terriers, however.

Last week, Princeton dropped a 6-4 decision to Army when the Cadets converted no less than three shorthanded situations into goals of their own. Finally, a hard fought overtime game against New Hampshire ended with the Wildcats producing the winning score, 3-2.

Goalies Alternated. Quackenbush has been alternating his veteran goaltenders, Captain Ed Swift and junior Phil Robinson. Elsewhere, the Tiger team is dominated by new faces. On defense, junior Al Stuever has been operating with sophomores Jim Damberger, Stan Hutton and Ethan Warren. Junior Pete McCann, out with a bruised kidney since the pre-season training period, is expected back for the Nichols Tourney.

Sophomores have paced the Nassau scoring parade to date. Mark Stuckey, a fine center, shows 5 goals and 3 assists, while his classmate, Mike Bascom, trails closely with 3 goals and 4 assists. Other first-year varsity players on Quackenbush's fronts include Brad Richards, Corky Powers and Steve Weiner.

With a demanding Ivy League schedule looming just over the horizon, the Tiger sextet would like nothing better than to turn the corner at the Nichols Tournament. Despite its veteran goalkeeping and a much better skating ability than its immediate predecessors, this Princeton team is struggling to convert its assets to victories. A championship at Buffalo would go a long way in restoring confidence and setting the stage for the league clashes to follow.

UNDEFEATED: Andy Foltiny, captain of the PHS wrestling team, has won all three of his matches this season. He wrestles at 106 pounds.

MAT TOURNEY SATURDAY

PHS One of 10 Entered The fourth annual Lawrence Christmas Wrestling Tournament will be held all day Saturday at Lawrence High School with Princeton High one of 10 schools competing. Last year, the Little Tigers finished second to Riverside, placing three men in the finals.

Two of those three will return to defend their titles. Princeton's Andy Foltiny, who won the 98-pound class last year, will be competing in the 106-pound division this year. The PHS captain is undefeated in three matches this year, winning two by pins.

Phil Ebersole of PHS won the 115-pound championship last year, defeating top seeded Jim Mansfield in the final round. Like Foltiny, Ebersole has moved up a weight to compete in the 123-pound class. Unlike Foltiny, Ebersole has gotten off to a poor start this season. He has lost all three of his matches so far and PHS coach Tom Murray acknowledges that Ebersole is "having problems this year."

Murray is hoping for another fine performance this time by his team, which in defeating Hillsborough last week, has a 1-1-1 record. "We have a good team this year," he said. One PHS wrestler who Murray expects will do well is his 148-pounder, Bob Zinsmeister.

Zinsmeister was ousted last year by Bob Detweiler of Morrisville High School, who was voted the Tourney's Most Outstanding Wrestler. Zinsmeister is undefeated to date.

Preliminary matches will start in the morning to be followed by the semi-final rounds in the afternoon. The final and consolation bouts will start at 7:30.

Top Hillsborough, 33-21. Murray, who had been slowed by a virus, reported the best tonic he received all week was Princeton's 33-21 victory last week over home-team Hillsborough. "It's the best they've wrestled in ages," he said. "I figured they would be tough after we wrestled to a 20-20 draw last year in a scrimmage."

Freshman Dave Robinson, wrestling in only his second match ever, got PHS off winning with a pin in the 98-pound class. "It was a real surprise," commented Murray, who reported that Robinson only weighs about 86 pounds.

Foltiny pinned his man in "a beautiful match" said Murray in the 16-pound division, and Mike Holcombe (115 pounds) battled his opponent to a scoreless tie. Ebersole (123), Chris Schneeweiss (130) and Richard Holcombe (136) all lost decisions before Zinsmeister reversed the trend with a decision in the 148-pound class.

In the next three bouts, PHS won two and drew one to put the match out of reach. Ken DeRemer, 157-pound class, won a decision and Wes McClain won at 178 pounds. "DeRemer looked real good," commented Murray. "He'll be helping us this year."

Angelo Arcaro, Princeton 168-pounder, "started to show his old form" said Murray, when he wrestled his opponent, a regional champion last year.

Success Story of Current Decade Belongs to Princeton Wrestlers

While Princeton teams which are accorded the greatest amount of space on the sports pages (ranging through the year from football to basketball and hockey, baseball, crew and lacrosse) have not won an Ivy title among them in the current decade, one Tiger entry in the collegiate sports derby has been consistently nailing down championships with very little notice in the public print.

Princeton's wrestlers not only have earned at least a share of first place in the Ivy League for the past three years but — a scant three weeks into the current season — are a solid bet to do so again. A schedule quirk sent them against Pennsylvania, their foremost challenger, as early as December 13. They whipped the Quakers, who were defending champions with them, 24 to 15.

Three days later, the Tigers ground Franklin and Marshall, generally a small college wrestling power, into the mats, 35 to 3. Tough opposition within the league still lies ahead in meets with Harvard and Yale, but Princeton's convincing triumph over its 1972 co-champion leaves it very much the team to beat.

For Coach Johnny Johnston, it's been a rags-to-riches story. A decade ago, Princeton wrestling had its back on the mat, and the lights above were blurred. The Tigers won just two meets out of 10.

The Road Up. Johnston's first year was a loser, too, but thereafter, the Tigers under his guidance have always been above .500. Overall, his career at Princeton shows a combined record of 72 victories and two ties against 30 defeats. In the Ivy, he is 37-11, with that fourth straight first place finish looming on the horizon.

The reasons for Johnston's success are twofold: ability to recruit and ability to coach. If they are simply stated, they are not by any means simply achieved.

As college towns go, the community of Princeton has never really cottoned to the sport. Reasons range from a lack of understanding of its finer points to a misplaced belief that it has something in common with the nonsense staged by professionals who have long demeaned the sport.

There is, too, a relatively small opportunity for Princeton sports fans to gain exposure to wrestling at the college level. Whereas Tiger basketball and hockey teams will play up to a dozen games in Jadwin Gym and Baker Rink, the wrestlers have only four home dates, one of which conflicts with a hockey contest. Of the four meets in Jadwin, one was on Saturday night, two others on Saturday afternoons and a fourth on a Tuesday afternoon.

If townspeople stay away in large numbers, the sport does not draw heavily either from ameng Princeton's male undergraduate population of something over 3,000. Appreciation of the sport requires an awareness of its finer points (which are by no means as esoteric as fencing, for example); and spectator appreciation generally tends to the more constant flow of action in basketball and hockey.

Key matches on the wrestlers' path toward a title, invariably packed with bouts that provide a fine blend of tension and drama, draw a normal attendance of several hundred fans at best. Princeton wrestlers and Johnny Johnston would understandably enjoy greater public interest in their meets, but there is considerable consolation in the fact that they have for several years been the most successful varsity team among nearly a score representing the Orange and Black.

to a 5-5 draw. Dave Gayley, PHS heavyweight, was pinned.

"If the kids keep improving and we can shore up the middle then we could end up with a pretty decent season," Murray said. He observed that it is going to be a lot more rugged when the students from West Windsor leave PHS. "We'll have to start all over again."

PHS ENTERS TOURNEY

With 4-1 Record. Following its 59-52 win last week over Hillsborough, the Princeton High School basketball team entered the Summit Christmas Tourney with a 4-1 record.

The final night of the event will be Thursday evening. PHS was scheduled to oppose Summit High School this Wednesday at 7 in the opening game of the first round. St. Mary's and Essex Catholic were to play in the second game. Winners and losers will meet on Thursday.

"We're looking forward to playing in the tournament," said PHS coach Marvin Trotman after his team's victory over Hillsborough. So far, PHS has finished last in the two years its been in the event but, for PHS anyway, this has been like no other year for the past half-dozen.

More Lopsided Than Score. It is premature to describe the Little Tigers as "streaking" but PHS has continued its fast start with its easy win over Hillsborough. The game was much more lopsided that the score indicates. At one point, the visiting Little Tigers led 52 to 25 before Trotman went to his reserves.

Trotman reported that PHS actually didn't play that great a game offensively, "but we killed them off in the third quarter when they scored only five points." Larry Miller, he said, threw a blanket over Jack Stanczak, the Raiders' high scorer.

He got 23 points, Trotman agreed, (Stanczak led all scorers) but most of them were garbage shots or baskets after the outcome was no longer in doubt.

For PHS, "Bobby King had his usual fine game," said Trotman. He led the Little Tigers with 18. Princeton's other Between Mathematica and ECI. The merger of Educational Coordinates, Inc (ECI) into a wholly owned subsidiary of MATHEMATICA, Inc., has been completed. The transaction involved the issuance of 34,978 Mathematica common shares to former shareholders of ECI.

Headquartered in Sunnyvale, Calif., ECI also maintains offices in Bedford, Mass., and Salem, Ore. For its fiscal year ended August 31, ECI had revenues of approximately $1,000,000. The company will continue to operate with its existing professional staff under the direction of Arthur F Coombs, Jr. as president.

ECI was formed in 1967 by professional educators and computer specialists at Stanford University who were involved in some of the pioneering work on flexible class scheduling for schools.

This type of scheduling permits classes to meet for varying periods throughout the week, as dictated by the nature of the course and the facilities needed rather than meeting for fixed periods, five days a week

ECI provides flexible as well as traditional scheduling services and a variety of consulting services which support modern instructional techniques Among these services are, program assessment and evaluation studies, staff development services, seminars and workshops on educational issues and innovations, a rental film library on educational techniques, administrative software systems and data processing services.

ARE YOU LOSING MONEY?

You are...if your bank doesn't pay interest on your savings account from day of deposit to day of withdrawal.

Suppose you have $500 in your account at the start of a quarterly interest period. Two weeks later you deposit $200 into your account. Do you know that at many banks your $200 will earn no interest whatsoever during the period, even though it was on deposit for all but two weeks of the quarter?

Nor is this the only way you can lose interest on your savings. Once again, suppose you have $500 in your account when a quarterly interest period begins. Now let's say you withdraw $300 one week before the period ends. At many banks you'll receive interest only on $200—the lowest balance—even though you had $500 on deposit for almost the entire interest period.

This is not the case at New Jersey National Bank. We'll pay interest on every penny you deposit into your savings account. And we'll pay it from day of deposit to day of withdrawal, providing you maintain a minimum balance of $5. We'll also compound your interest every day, which means the interest you earn today starts earning its own interest tomorrow. And our rates are the highest allowed by law.

To find out if your savings will earn more interest at New Jersey National Bank, just bring your passbook to any of our offices. Most banks begin a new interest period* around this time of year. So now is the best time to switch. But do it soon, because you may be losing money every day you delay.

*Banks usually begin a new quarterly interest period on the 1st of January, April, July and October.

Obituaries

Prof. Donald Roberts, 83, of 15 Maple Street, died December 20 at the Princeton Medical Center. Born in Garden City, Long Island, he had lived here for the past 13 years.

Prof. Roberts, a member of the Class of 1909 at Princeton, was chairman of the history department at St. John's University in Shanghai, China, from 1915 until 1950. He served in the same capacity at Beirut College for Women in Lebanon from 1950 until his retirement nine years later.

Prof. Roberts was for nearly half a century an Episcopal missionary teacher. He belonged to Trinity Church of Princeton.

Husband of Mrs. Frances Markley Roberts, he is also survived by two sons, Harley M. and Markley, both of Washington, D. C.; a daughter, Mrs. Mary Craighill of Tinan, Taiwan; a brother, Sam S. Roberts of Brooklyn; a sister, Mrs. Helen Matthews of Morristown; and seven grandchildren.

A memorial service was held at Trinity Church, the Rev. James R. Whittemore, pastor, officiating. Arrangements were under direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Miss Louise Maas, 77, of Harbourton-Woodsville Road, Pennington, died December 20 in Mercer Hospital, Trenton, after a lengthy illness. For 15 years until her retirement last October, she was the proprietor of the candy shop in Palmer Square which bore her name.

Born in Lawrence Township, Miss Maas had lived in New York for 30 years before coming to Princeton. She was director of religious education for the Presbyterian Board of National Missions.

Upon her retirement from that position in 1957, she came to Princeton and opened the candy shop. Its success prompted a move several years ago from its original Nassau Street location to a larger store at 63 Palmer Square.

Miss Maas lived in Princeton, most recently at 172 Nassau Street, before moving to Pennington earlier this year. She was a member of the Business and Professional Women's Club, the Chamber of Commerce and the Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are a brother, Leonard A. Maas of Lambertville, and two sisters, Mrs. Tenli Messer of San Francisco and Mrs. Leonard Marshall of Pennington.

The service was held at the Mather Funeral Home, the Rev. Dana H. Fearon, pastor of the Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church, officiating. Burial was in Lawrenceville Cemetery.

Dr. Andrew Godfrey, 98, of 12 Hunter Road, died December 21 in Princeton. During his long career, he had been both a surgeon and a banker.

Dr. Godfrey served as a surgeon in the United States Army during both the Spanish-American War and World War I. In 1933, an automobile accident curtailed his medical practice and he turned to banking.

He was associated with the First National Bank of Ambler, Pa., before founding the Ambler National Bank as its successor and serving as its first president. It later merged with the Girard Trust Co. of Philadelphia and Dr. Godfrey remained with it in an executive capacity until his retirement six years ago.

Dr. Godfrey was married in 1908 to Margarett C. Watson of Langhorne, Pa. Following her death in 1932, he married Mrs. Mary Ely of Doylestown, who also pre-deceased him. He is survived by a son, Dr. Ellwood Godfrey of Hunter Road, a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Bradford of Charlotte, N. C.; a step-son, Samuel Ely of Philadelphia; seven grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

The funeral was held in Whitemarsh, Pa.

Dr. Lester V. Plum, 66, of 24 Murray Place, died December 25 in Merwick. A native of Yakima, Wash., he had lived here since 1931.

Prior to his retirement three years ago, Dr. Plum had for 17 years been a senior financial analyst for Brown Brothers Harriman, an investment banking firm in New York. He graduated summa cum laude in 1927 from the University of Washington and later received his master's and doctor of philosophy degrees in economics from Princeton. He taught at Princeton for ten years as a member of the Department of Economics.

Dr. Plum also lectured in finance at Columbia and later, at the graduate level, at Bernard Baruch University in New York. For seven years during his career, he was a specialist in heavy industry for Calvin Bullock, a management investment trust fund company.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Ruth L. Plum, and two daughters, Miss Deloris Plum of Durham, N. C., and Mrs. Anand Kumar of West Willington, Conn.

A memorial service will be held Saturday at 2 in the Marquand Transept of Princeton University Chapel. Contributions in his memory may be made to the American Cancer Society.

The Mather Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Dr. Manuel H. Greenblatt, 50, of 60 Wittmer Court, died December 25 in Princeton Medical Center. Born in Philadelphia, he had lived here for the past 20 years.

Dr. Greenblatt graduated from the University of Pennsylvania and held a degree in medicine from his alma mater. He had been associated with RCA Laboratories here until his retirement in 1966. Dr. Greenblatt was the author of "Multiple Sclerosis and

SCULPTURE IS MOBILE

To Move Nevelson. Princeton's planners will begin the new year next Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall with an agenda that ranges from a controversial piece of sculpture to the location of a laundry.

The University will be in for site plan review in connection with shifting by a few feet the large sculpture by Louise Nevelson that stands at the corner of Firestone Library near the library's walkway in from Nassau Street.

The massive Nevelson sculpture has been in violation of setback requirements of the Borough zoning ordinance. The new location will bring it into harmony with the law.

A new laundry building on the grounds of the Tenacre Foundation will be considered under the Township's site plan review ordinance.

In addition, the Princeton Regional Planning Board will hold two public hearings. The latest plans for cluster development of the former Sheehan property at Cherry Hill and Stuart Roads will be heard, and also plans for subdividing the Winant Road property of Eugene and Martha Pacsu.

BOMB THREAT RECEIVED

By Sport Shop. A phone call saying a bomb would go off in five minutes — the third such threat in the Borough in the past two weeks — was received last Wednesday morning at Varsity Sport Shop, 138 Nassau Street.

After the call, employees at the store conducted a search. They also notified police and a patrolman conducted a search of the store. He, too, failed to find any bomb.

HOPEWELL MAN STABBED

By House Intruder. David M. Beckman, 257 Moores Mill-Mt. Rose Road, Hopewell Township was cut on the head and hand Christmas night as he attempted to subdue a burglar inside his home. He was treated for his wounds and released.

According to State Police from the Hopewell Township Barracks, Mr. Beckman and his wife, Margaret, returned home around 7:20 and upon entering Mr. Beckman thought he heard someone inside. He immediately went to a small room off the main hallway where he kept a gun collection.

Inside, State Police said, he saw an intruder with one of his guns strapped to his side. Mr. Beckman attempted to disarm him and a struggle ensued. Police reported that Mr. Beckman managed to get his arm around the intruder's neck and disarm him, telling his wife at the same time to call the police while he held him.

The intruder, however, managed to reach a knife he carried, slashed at Mr. Beckman, broke loose and ran out the rear door into fields bordering the property. State Police with the aid of dogs from the Trenton Police K-9 Corps searched the area without success.

State Police described the suspect as white, between 18 and 5'10, 130 pounds, dark complexioned with long hair, possibly in a pony tail. He was wearing dark trousers and a green army jacket.

SAFETY TESTS PLANNED

Highway Signs Target. Motor vehicles will be driven into highway signs along a section of Interstate Route 95 in Hopewell Township next month in a series of safety tests to be conducted by the Department of Transportation.

The vehicles will be directed by remote control at various speeds and at various angles to strike the sign posts which are designed to give way under impact.

From data gathered during the tests, the Department's Division of Research and Development hopes to determine how large a sign can be installed and how many posts it would require to reduce the hazard of collisions.

The test site will be near the entrance ramp to southbound Route 95 from Scotch Road, Hopewell Township. Testing will be done weekdays during January between 9:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. While the ramp is closed for the tests, traffic will be detoured over Nursey Road to the Bear Tavern entrance to Route 95.

PLAYWRIGHT NAMED

For University Post. Jean-Claude van Itallie, author of "America Hurrah" and "The Serpent," has been appointed playwright-in-residence for Princeton University's spring semester.

He will teach an undergraduate course which will, he says, involve "writing games," in which the young playwrights will create spontaneously, according to rules made up in class. The class itself will be a workshop-laboratory.

Born in Brussels in 1936, Mr. van Itallie left Europe with his family ahead of the Nazi invasion and spent his childhood in Great Neck, Long Island. He was graduated from Harvard in 1958.

"America Hurrah" was produced off-Broadway in 1966, and later at the Royal Court Theatre in London. "The Serpent" was produced when he was playwright-in-residence at the Open Theatre. He has written for Cafe La Mama, the Cino, and for educational television.

TOWN TOPICS is delivered without charge to every home in Princeton Borough and Township and to part or all of West Windsor, Lawrence, Hopewell, Montgomery, South Brunswick and Franklin Townships and Griggstown. At all newsstands, including TOWN TOPICS' office, it costs a dime.

TO HOLD CAROL SERVICE

At Trinity Church. The traditional festival service of lessons and carols will be presented this Sunday at 11 a.m. by the Trinity Choirs of boys, senior girls and men. The 9:15 a.m. service will be a Christmastide Eucharist with music by Vaughan Williams sung by the Adult Choir.

The service of lessons and carols was made famous by the choir of King's College in Cambridge. The carols heard come from many ages and many lands, beginning with the first stanza of Once in Royal David's City, sung by a single choir boy at the opening of the service and ending with all choirs and congregation singing the great Christmas hymn, O Come All Ye Faithful.

The lessons are read by a choir boy, an acolyte, various laymen and vestry, with the final lesson read by the rector, Rev. James R. Whittemore. James Litton, organist and choirmaster will conduct the carols for choirs and congregation.

Real Estate Happenings

by BOB SUYDAM
manager Pennington office

When you are selling your house, it's a comfort to be able to refer all questions about price, terms of bargain, what will be left in the house, etc., to your real estate man. This is a great gaining point, since it gives you a chance to think over your answers before you submit them to your broker. A third party always can handle questions such as these fairly and without bias which is a valuable consideration as well!

Homes . . . all sizes, shapes and prices are available through WALTER B. HOWE INC., 1 Palmer Sq., Princeton (924-0095), Pennington (737-3301) and W. Windsor (799-1100). Open 9-9, Sat. 9-5, Sun. 1-5. Personalized attention given to all clients. HAPPY NEW YEAR.

New Listing - Princeton Township

An ideal home for a growing family — 10 rooms in move-in condition — well landscaped yards with many large shade trees — within walking distance of Princeton public schools, swimming pools and tennis courts.

Beyond the carpeted entrance foyer is a large living room (22x16) with Delft tile fireplace. From the dining room a dutch door leads to the 12 ft. screened porch. An eat-in kitchen, completely remodeled a year ago, includes Kitchenaid dishwasher, Maytag disposal, Westinghouse self-cleaning range, and Quaker Maid cabinets. A few steps lead down to a bright, sunny Family room (26x11), with its own lavatory. The brick patio in the rear is perfect for summer entertaining. Access to the 2-car garage is from this level.

Of the 5 bedrooms on the upper level, 4 have 2 closets each, and ample space for twin beds. One of these bedrooms, with its high ceiling and wood panelled walls, can be used as a quiet den. There are 2 full tiled baths, many closets, and a large storage area.

The basement, pine-panelled and asphalt-tiled, makes a spacious recreation room — ideal for teen-age parties. The laundry, well-lighted workshop, and wine cellar are separate rooms.

Additional features include central air-conditioning, large exhaust fan, telephone jacks, all plaster walls, and oak floors throughout.
